

CAPITAL GAINS

What to do in London

BY FRANKIE McCOY

1

YOUNG AND VIC

High fashion and critically acclaimed sculpture collide at Victoria Beckham's Dover Street store, as stone sculptress Emily Young collaborates with her highness on an installation of jewels and stones. 'Tiny portable sculptures,' as Young puts it. Her jewellery (above) will also be on sale. 15 Sep to 13 Oct (victoriabeckham.com)

VICTORIA BECKHAM AW17

A selection from Virgil Abloh's The Ten collaboration with Nike

2

JUST DO IT...

Sprint over to east London's NikeLab 1948 to get your hands on the most coveted kicks of the season, as Nike teams up with Virgil Abloh (above) — much eulogised fashion designer and Kanye West's longtime creative director — for his ridiculously cool take on 10 classic Nike sneakers, 'The Ten'. Workshops throughout the four-day pop-up include designing your own bespoke Air Force 1s. Serious street-cred guaranteed. Until 17 Sep (nike.com)

3

Hazy DUKES

Escape the LFW madness and chill with a drink at Dukes London's new restaurant GBR, where they're pouring limited-edition, sartorially twisted cocktails such as the Jimmy Shoe Sour: Midori, lemon, sugar syrup and egg white. 15-24 Sep (dukeshotel.com)

TO THE 'BURBS

Gogglebox eat your heart out: Burberry celebrates the great British way of life in all its wonderful weirdness at Old Sessions House. Curated by Christopher Bailey and Lucy Moore, the Here We Are exhibition comprises dozens of beautiful photos shot all around the UK. 18 Sep to 1 Oct (burberry.com)

SLICE OF HEAVEN

What's better than a pizza party? A pizza party with oceans of proper nice wine and ultra-chilled reggae. 'Wine Ya Batty Up' is Made of Dough and wine merchant Lea & Sandeman's boozy, cheesy carbfeast, and as such is the ultimate LFW unwind. Tickets £35. 20 Sep (madeofdough.co.uk)

DOUBLE ACT

Epic London art duo and kebab connoisseurs Gilbert & George (above) take over Bond Street gallery Lévy Gorvy with The General Jungle or Carrying on Sculpting, a monumental 1971 charcoal work that confirmed their status as 'living sculptures' and superstars. Until 18 Nov (levygorvy.com)

Hill THRILLS

Handbags at dawn, as accessories brand Hill & Friends opens its first stand-alone store in South Molton Street. The House of Hill & Friends has all the signature quirky handbags you could hope for, in among life-size ostriches decorating the all-pink interior. Opens 22 Sep (hillandfriends.com)

LAST CHANCE: Spot the next international art darling at the Saatchi Gallery's START Art Fair, showcasing work from Vietnam to Argentina, before it closes on 17 September.

LOOK AHEAD: Box clever at Power of Boxing's 24-hour charity Boxathon. Sign up in a team to complete 1,440 minutes of skipping, circuits and sparring. 22-23 Sep (powerofboxing.com)

The Singing Sculpture, Sonnabend Gallery, New York, 1991
© 2017 Gilbert & George; Ken Russell, In Your Dreams, January 1955
© TopFoto / Ken Russell illustration by Jonathan Catugli @ Macnias

